LDK Consultants introduces an integrated due diligence service

LDK Consultants recently realized an integrated due diligence for the paper production industrial complex of Papyros SA in Katerini of Pieria in northern Greece, on behalf of the multinational paper industry group Sofidel SpA. LDK Consultants provides services of integrated due diligence already since 2006, having completed partial due diligence projects both for enterprises and industrial facilities in Greece and abroad in the last three years.

The aim of an integrated due diligence focuses on the elaboration of a detailed depiction of all structural and operational elements of an installation or facility, which present deficiencies either in terms of compliance to the respective legislation or in terms of implementation of best available techniques and state-of-the-art practices.

LDK Consultants' offered service package includes an architectural and structural engineering audit for building structures and topographic depiction of the actual status. A detailed audit of electrical and mechanical installations and infrastructures is also included, along with an energy audit of the facilities in respect to their operational energy efficiency. Compliance to environmental legislation is examined as well, coupled with a comparison to best available techniques, and an evaluation of the environmental management effectiveness. Furthermore, an audit for occupational health and safety issues is also included, covering legislation compliance and comparison to most suitable practices.

The particular service package provides the client with an effective decision-making support tool both for top management and technical administration level, since it incorporates a depiction of the actual situation, detailed conclusions per sector of interest, mitigation suggestions, risk evaluation and cost estimation of proposed measures, in a single deliverable. Using this tool, the management can set defined priorities in respect to strategic planning and available funds. Major advantage of this service is its value-for-money, as well as the flexibility in its provision, which can be partial or integrated, adjusting to the needs of each client. Service quality is guaranteed in all aspects by the over-forty-year history and the multidisciplinary expertise of LDK Consultants.
